Burns claims to have evidence to show mismanagement in the conduct of the institution, for which he charged the superintendent is responsible. Tails Still Fashionable in Northern Nigeria

In the remote part of northern Nigeria, still populated to a great extent by wild tribes and not yet under complete control of the British, there dwell a people whose women wear tails and are proud of them, according to Maj. A. J. N. Tremearne, who has served in Nigeria, both as a police and political officer, in a communication to the National Geographic Society today.

True, it is that these tails are not of flesh and blood, but, none the less, they play an important part in the social life of the people, for they are the outward and visible sign of the maternity dignity," says the letter. "When a woman of the Kano, Kaji, or of four other neighboring tribes—the Atakpa, Morva, Katab, or the Jaba—becomes a bride, she puts off forever the simple girdle of twisted grass that, up to that moment, has been her sole adornment, and assumes the apron of leaves and the tremendously significant tail, or kunnok, as it is called.

Time Limited in Which to Pay Your Jewelry Tax

What is the total value of the jewelry and articles of personal adornment in the District, and to what extent will the revenues of the District be increased by their assessment? This is a question as yet undetermined by the board of personal tax appraisers. Jewelry values in the returns of personal property submitted to the office of the assessor to date are estimated at approximately $200,000. Property owners, however, have nine days in which to file a schedule of their goods, and it is believed that this figure will be largely increased by the end of the month. One owner estimated the value of her jewelry at $30,000, another at $20,000 and a third at $10,000. A number of $1,000 and $5,000 returns have been received.

Jewelry and articles of personal adornment included in the tax returns this year for the first time, following an opinion of the Corporation Counsel that they are not "wearing apparel." The question was referred to Corporation Counsel Syme, as a result of discussion between members of the board of personal tax appraisers and Judge S. F. Prouty, member of the House District Committee. Judge Prouty holding that such goods are taxable.

Heretofore they have escaped taxation, being classed by the appraisers as "wearing apparel." The tax

White House Painting Held Up by Congress

President Wilson has an active sympathizer because he has "Congress on his hands." He is Colonel Harza, superintendent of public buildings and grounds. For weeks the colonel has been twitted because the paint on the White House has lost luster, and instead of presenting its usual picturesque appearance, it is blistered and weather worn here and there.

The colonel has money enough to paint the structure and to restore it to all its glory. His men have plenty of white paint on hand, but the President insists on obeying the law and living in the ancient structure during the summer simply because Congress stays on the job and keeps on appointing. Last year the roof was touched up, but the walls could not be painted and from the present outlook it will be late this summer, if at all, before the painters get on the job.
